MARINE

The only arrival yesterday in Honolulu harbor, with the exception of the Inter-Island steamers, was that of the British collier Aoten, bringing coal for the Inter-Island Steam Navigation Co. from Newcastle. Her cargo amounts to 5500 tons. She docked at about half-past one, after a pleasant trip from Sydney, though head winds were experienced for the first few days out of the Australian port. The next collier from Australia for the Inter-Island will be the Buentaur, which should arrive here about the middle of December.

ALAMEDA'S FREIGHT.

The Oceanic steamer Alameda, to sail for San Francisco tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, will take the following freight: 11,732 cases of canned pineapples, 2500 sacks of rice, 6000 bunches of bananas, 300 cases of green pineapples, 1000 bags of sugar and an assortment of general island produce. The sugar is from Waimanalo and is small as the weather at that point has been so rough of late that Capt. Seale could not make a landing with the steamer Cummins.

MAIL ON FRIDAY.

The next mail to arrive from the Coast will come on the Hilonian, which should be in port Friday morning. Captain Johnson is a day late on account of the docking of the Matson liner in San Francisco and will spend Thanksgiving at sea. He will bring in six days' mail from San Francisco.

MARU ON THURSDAY.

The America Maru, bringing in the St. Louis team from Japan, should reach here on Thursday. She will be welcomed at the dock by a big crowd, as the Saints are deservedly popular in this city.

NEVADAN SAILS TODAY.

The American-Hawaiian steamer Nevada, Captain Greene, sails for San Francisco, via Kahului, this afternoon at 5 o'clock. She will have a small cargo as it is the off season for sugar and the Alameda will take most of the perishable freight tomorrow.

MEXICAN SAILS FRIDAY.

The Mexican, the big new freighter of the American-Hawaiian Steamship company, will probably leave this port for Salina Cruz direct on Friday. She takes sugar from this city and Kauai and will, according to Freight Agent Morse, have a full cargo, made up in part by freight shipped on her for New York in Seattle and San Francisco.

Weekly Weather Bulletin

For the week ended November 23, 1907.

Honolulu, November 25, 1907.
GENERAL SUMMARY.

The mean temperatures were higher than those of the preceding week 4 deg. to 2.0 deg. on the leeward side of Oahu; 5 deg. to 1.3 deg. higher in the Lahaina, Kula and Waialuku districts of Maui, excepting 5 deg. lower at Puunene; 0 deg. to 1.7 deg. higher on Kauai; 5 deg. higher in the interior of Molokai; and 2 deg. to 3 deg. higher in the Hamakua, Kona and Kohala districts of Hawaii, excepting 5 deg. lower at Kohala Mission. They were lower 3 deg. to 2.6 deg. in the Puna, Kau and Hilo districts of Hawaii; 3 deg. to 1.8 deg. on the windward side of Oahu, and 1 deg. to 1.0 deg. in the Hana, Hamakualoa and Koolau districts of Maui.

The total rainfall for the week was light to moderate in amount throughout the section, the greatest amounts being reported from the Koolau, Hamakualoa, Hamakua and Hana districts of Maui—where they ranged from 1.79 to 3.00 inches—and from the Puna and Hilo districts of Hawaii where they varied from 1.43 to 4.74 inches. No rain was reported from the Kau district of Hawaii, and the Kula and east-central portion of the Waialuku district of Maui. In the Lahaina and west-central portion of the Waialuku districts of Maui the amounts ranged from .03 to .11 inch. On Oahu the amounts varied from .42 inch to 1.41 inches in the windward districts, and .07 to .34 inch on the leeward side. On Kauai the amounts ranged from .25 inch to 1.52 inches; on Molokai from .19 to .90 inch, and in the Kohala and Hamakua districts of Hawaii from .42 to .51 inch, and .09 to .45 inch in the Kona district.

At stations having a record of ten or more years the rainfall, compared with the average for the week, was .56 inch to 1.11 inches below on Oahu; .04 to .63 inch below on Kauai, and in the several districts of Hawaii; .36 to .66 inch below in the Puna, Kona and Kohala, 1.00 inch to 1.80 inches below in the Hamakua and Kau, and .25 inch to 1.68 inches below in the northern portion and .26 to .21 inch above in the southern portion of the Hilo district.

Strong and at times squally winds, and rough seas generally prevailed at coast stations.

The following table shows the weekly averages of temperature and rainfall for the principal islands and for the group:

| | Temperature, Degrees. | Rainfall, Inches. |
|--------------|-----------------------|-------------------|
| Hawaii | 71.8 | 1.85 |
| Maui | 73.3 | 1.38 |
| Oahu | 75.8 | 0.71 |
| Kauai | 74.1 | 0.89 |
| Molokai | 73.4 | 0.54 |
| Entire Group | 73.2 | 1.42 |

At the local office of the U. S. Weather Bureau in Honolulu, partly cloudy and cloudy weather prevailed with measurable rainfall on three dates amounting to .34 inch, .90 below the average for the week, and .09 less than during last week. The maximum temperature was 81 deg., minimum 69 deg., and mean 75.3 deg., 1.9 deg. higher than the normal, and 4 deg. higher than the preceding week's. The mean relative humidity was 70.6 per cent, and the prevailing wind direction N.E., with an average hourly velocity of 12.0 miles. The mean daily barometer was .96 to .12 inch above the normal.

HAWAII'S TIME WILL SOON COME

as we have here on this island. When we return for next winter I am going to have my automobile brought down from the Coast and probably some of my horses, and I will see the whole country. My son has been over to some of the other islands on this trip and he tells me there is much to see off of Oahu.

"It is probable that I will find an opportunity to invest here. I see plenty of good chances to make money here, more than I could make by investing just now in San Francisco. The way things are going there is in the way of a holdup, which I cannot stand for. I have plans and specifications already drawn up for thirteen buildings on my property in the city, the former buildings on which went in the fire, but under present conditions I will not rebuild. The buildings I was figuring on are all good ones, nine, ten and twelve story, but the contract price offered is out of all reason. Buildings that ought to pay well at one hundred to one hundred and twenty thousand dollars, the contractors now estimate at two hundred thousand, and even then put in a clause adding twenty per cent in case of a strike. And a strike is one of the certainties. I did put up three big buildings, having leased them before building to good tenants and having to put them up, but if I had not leased them in the way I did I would have thrown them up. To finish them I had to take them out of the contractors' hands and complete them by day's labor.

"In going around this island I was surprised to see so much good land lying idle, land on which fruits of all kinds ought to be grown, fruits that we want in San Francisco. I am surprised that you do not go in more for fruits. There is always a demand in San Francisco for Honolulu bananas, but the dealers there tell us that they cannot get them and sell us plantains at fifty and sixty cents a dozen. What few Hawaiian bananas do reach the Coast are sent right out to Seattle and the north, where they won't eat the poor ones we have to use. In San Francisco alone these islands could sell twenty times as many bananas as they do.

"Take the papaya, too. That is a delicious fruit that everyone likes the first time they try it. Down in Florida, at the Ponce de Leon hotel and the Poinciana, they import the fruit from Mexico, calling it pawpaw, and there is a big demand for it. Why don't you ship it out? There is no question about a market.

"Your pineapples are also good, equal to if not better than the best from Florida. It seems to me that there should be no trouble in getting from five to six dollars a dozen on the Coast and there ought to be money in it for you at that. The Mexican pines sell at seven and eight dollars a dozen, no better pines than yours. "For one thing, I want to tell you that there are a lot of knockers in this country, just the same kind of knockers that we had in California and the Northwest when we started to open that district up as a fruit country. Those who were interested in the large holdings laughed and discouraged all who wanted to go into apples and pines. Look at that country now. I was one of the very first to buy apples in the Oregon country and the man I bought for and interested there is now worth a quarter of a million, all out of Oregon fruit.

"I do not think that there can be any doubt about what the Federal government will do for this place, much more than the people think and many times more than the officials are making public. That is going to be one of the things that will make Honolulu. The other is the fruit trade. It will come and when it does there will be very little of the good land I see now lying idle that will not be put to some use, a use that will bring in as much to the people of Hawaii as the sugar plantations do now."

MOTORMAN M'CLAIN'S MYSTERIOUS CASE

Proceedings in the matter of the estate of Alexander McLain, reported as dead, were discontinued yesterday. Word had been received from the Pacific Coast Marine Firemen's Union that it had no knowledge of his death. McLain was a motorman here and left for San Francisco in March last with Clifford Watson, another street car man, who some months later wrote to E. G. Ferreira telling him McLain had been drowned in the bay and buried by his union. McLain left his wife here and she has never heard from him. There was $1000 insurance on his life. The San Francisco authorities will be written to about the reported drowning of McLain.
